<sup>1</sup> The verse (2:219) answers to two questions:

1. "about strong drink and games of chance." This is abrogated by (5:90).

2. "And they ask thee what they ought to spend." This portion of the verse has no connection with intoxicants, but it answers the question of early Muslims about how much they had to spend on charity. Muhammad ordered: "Say: that which is superfluous" (Pickthal) or "What is beyond your needs." (Yusuf Ali) After a while the "alms" were enjoined or made obligatory. This is why some Muslim theologians say that this verse is abrogated regarding "alms." So, according to this view, the verse (9:103) abrogating one.

The Arabs of the desert are the worst in Unbelief and hypocrisy, and most fitted to be in ignorance of the command which Allah hath sent down to His Messenger: But Allah is All-knowing, All-Wise. Some of the desert Arabs look upon their payments as a fine, and watch for disasters for you: on them be the disaster of evil: ...	98[97]  99[98]	9	But some of the desert Arabs believe in Allah and the Last Day, and look on their payments as pious gifts bringing them nearer to Allah and obtaining the prayers of the Messenger.
